

Welcome to Delhi...the capital city & the heart of India. The weather in Delhi during the spring season is quite pleasant. The temperature varies between 10 - 25 degrees Celsius from mid February till the end of March. Early morning and nights are usually frosty with minimal possibility of mild showers. A brief projection of the weather forecast is included for your benefit. This is one of the best seasons to visit Delhi and enjoy the city's greenery and historical legacy. Global warming has led to weather being unpredictable, so the table below is only for a basic reference. Don't forget to carry some woollen garments to avoid any drop in temperature.
